Static Rocks is a premier South Florida classic to alternative rock and pop band, with classic hit songs from Lynyrd Skynyrd to Pearl Jam, The Stray Cats, The Beatles, Green Day, U2, Foo Fighters, Eric Clapton, just to name a few.

A Miami-based band that formed in 2014, Static is a culturally diverse musical collective with over 25 years of experience in the music scene, providing a good, clean, fun, and high-energy rock show for all ages and audiences.

We're a bunch of cool rockin' dudes!

Members

Jevon Olea Main Vocals Rhythm Guitar

Miami born and raised, and with background from the Philippines, Jevon has been involved in music since childhood. He has worked with artists in the local scene, and he brings his own and unique vocal range to the mix.

He puts his heart and soul into every song he sings and leaves everything on stage. His passion for music shows every time he grabs the mic, the guitar, the piano, or the bass guitar. His connection with the audience is palpable and invigorating.

An avid car lover, Jevon is also involved in the local Miami car community.

Alejandro Hernandez
(Nanu)
Lead Guitar
Backup Vocals

Originally from Venezuela, Nanu fell in love with the guitar at age 11, when he found his uncle's old Spanish classical guitar in his grandmother's house.

A few years later, his father gave him his first electric guitar and he started his first garage rock band. He has been part of several projects in Venezuela and the U.S. including Satori, Faldas Largas, Bachaco, Gabby Villanueva, and Willy Saintidor and the Magnificent Band, both as studio and touring guitarist.

His passion for music shows in every performance, making the guitar sing, which earned him the nickname "Mini-Hendrix" by Static's fan base.

He plays guitar, bass guitar, drums and percussion, ukulele, and a little bit of piano.

Ricardo Fiorani (Ricky) Bass Guitar Backup Vocals

Originally from Venezuela, finding his passion for music at a very early age, Ricky grew up in between the guitar-shredding and the glam eras.

His first live appearance was as a keyboardist at age 10, but eventually decided to walk the groovy line, making the perfect connection between the rhythm and melodies while rumbling the low end to the core.

Ricky has rocked countless stages around Venezuela, the U.S. and Europe, and now in Static, he is rocking every stage in South Florida and beyond, sharing his passion for music with every crowd possible.

Gear: Fender, G&L, Ibanez, and Michael Kelly bass guitars; MarkBass and TC Electronics Amplification, and a ton of different brands in pedal effects.

Paco Camara Drums

Do you hear that? That's Paco back on drums!

Originally from Puerto Rico, Paco lays down the beats and the groove. He has an extensive music career, with with 20+ years behind the drum set.

Paired with Ricky, Paco locks in the perfect beat for the perfect groove in every song, and on top of that, Paco is one hell of a guy.

With a collective 25 years of experience performing, south Florida rock and roll band Static is emerging as one of the more talented groups gigging in the Upper Keys. Formed in 2014, the band's prowess is quickly apparent by its tight playing. These gentlemen can jam.

Guitarist Alejandro “Nanu” Hernandez handles the busy work of jumping between rhythm and lead with ease. His solo play even earned him an endorsement from the Gibson guitar line. Originally from Venezuela, Hernandez fell in love with the guitar at age 11 after finding a classical guitar at his grandmother’s house. Hernandez would progress from his high school rock band to work on a studio album with the alt-rock band Satori.

Bassist Javier Manrique began playing music early as a percussionist in a Brazilian band before developing a love for the bass guitar. Coming from a renowned Peruvian family of musicians, Manrique has always been involved in recording, shows, and musical projects.

Omar Vivoni, the newest member, has taken on the band’s drumming duties. Originally from Puerto Rico, Vivoni has toured and worked as a studio musician.

Finally, with a background in the New York punk scene, vocalist Alvaro Gomez brings high energy and passion to each performance. Having previously fronted three bands, Gomez is a true showman who enjoys connecting with his audience.

Their scheduled performances are Dec. 9 and 23 at Hog Heaven, Dec. 29 at Gilberts, Jan. 27 at Lorelei, and Feb. 10 at Gilberts. The band is also in search of new venues. For bookings, call 305-316-8567 or email staticbandrocks@gmail.com.
